

Uwharrie Mountains Wine Trail

The Uwharrie Mountains are a remnant of a volcanic island chain that emerged from the ocean floor over 500 million years ago. Once, 20,000 feet in elevation, the Uwharries are believed to be the oldest mountain range in North America. Today, local wineries reap the benefits of this ancient, mineral-laden soil, creating wines of exceptional quality.

Come visit these award winning wineries. Enjoy their southern hospitality combined with a unique winery experience.
