The Cherokee Wine Mini-Trail

Wineries: 2    Mileage: 22.1

Tucked into the far western corner of the state, these two Cherokee County wineries give you a great taste of Southern Appalachia. Calaboose cellars claims the title of the smallest free-standing, complete winery in America (just 300 square feet), and the tasting room operates out of Andrews' first jailhouse. Meanwhile, the Valley River Vineyards boasts a three-acre vineyard on a 12-acre farm, and hosts tastings, tours, and events on warm weather weekends.

Directions

- 1. From Downtown Andrews - From Main Street/2nd Street, turn south onto Laurel Street (the only direction you can go), then turn left when it ends at Aquone Road. Calaboose Cellars is in the small stone building 0.3 miles down the road.
- Return to Main Street/2nd Street and take a left. Follow for 1.5 miles, then take a left US Highways 129/19/74, and continue to follow the highway for 14.6 miles into the town of Murphy. Turn left onto Hiwassee Street, and go 0.6 miles until taking a slight right onto Martins Creek Road. Stay on Martins Creek Road for 4.7 miles, and the Valley River Vineyards will be on your left.
- Go back right on Martins Creek Road to return to Murphy and Andrews. Go left on Martins Creek Road to get to US 19/129, which can take you into North Georgia or to Lake Hiwassee.

*Winery hours vary seasonally. Please call ahead to be sure the vineyards you want to visit will be open when you arrive.
